Introduction:

Prince Sultan University Translation Award was established in 2016. It is an award at the university level. The award is supervised by the Translation and Authoring Center (TAC), the University Higher Management, the Higher Committee for Funding Book-Authoring and Translation Projects and Translation Award and independent referees' committees.

Objectives:

The award aims to:

1. Honor translators and appreciate their role as a bridge for communication between nations.
2. Encourage creativity and information exchange between Arabic and other languages.
3. Encourage individuals to pay attention to translation and Arabicization and ensure excellence and creativity.
4. Contribute to raise the level of translation and Arabicization in terms of quality, accuracy, intellectual and scientific value.

General Regulations:

1. The participants can apply for the award by submitting a translated work in any field of knowledge.
2. The translated work shall be of a scientific value.
3. The chosen book, in the students' translation award, shall not be translated before.
4. If the chosen book has more than one edition, the translator shall choose the most recent edition to translate.

5. The book content shall not conflict with the Islamic Law and the Kingdom's political and social controls.
6. The translated work shall not contain expressions or pictures that are indecent or that contradict the Arab norms.
7. The translated work shall not contain offensive words on Islam/religions or for the Arabic language whether these words are explicit or implicit.
8. Furthermore, the translated work shall not contain false information about the divine religions or expressions that encourage extremist ideology.
