B. Course Objectives and Learning Outcomes

1. Course Description

The course is designed to provide a rigorous understanding of the International Financial Mechanism, Measuring Exposure to Exchange Rate Fluctuations, Direct Foreign Investment, Multinational Capital Budgeting, International Corporate Governance and Control, Country Risk Analysis, Multinational Capital Structure and Cost of Capital and International Cash Management

The course also focuses on the role of a financial manager in international perspective. The risk to the firm, due to exchange rate fluctuations is divided into Economic, transaction, and translation exposure. For each of these areas, attempt is made to answer the questions like: why and how do fluctuating exchange rates place the multinational firm at risk? What can the firm do to minimize the risk associated with fluctuating exchange rates?

International sources of financing international trade along with the issues relating to the way a firm raises capital are also considered. In this regard, the analysis of foreign capital markets and Euro markets is undertaken. International financial institutions and their role in the economic development of several countries will also be analyzed.

2. Course Main Objective

 $\mathbf{\alpha}$

To develop analytical skills and problem solving competencies using case studies, problem solving exercises as well as current issues in international finance at the individual and group levels. Moreover, to expose students to the familiarity with typical international financial instruments and an understanding of the application of these instruments in a global context.
